It is stated by one of the Opposition papers that no legal voter was kept from voting in Frankfort either by violence or intimidation. Without going into details at this time we give this statement as unqualified denial. It is not true in whole or in part. It can be disproved by hundreds of witnesses; but such a step in reference to the matter is wholly unnecessary. Every Democrat in the town knows the facts. Very many of the Opposition who witnessed the riotous conduct at the polls on the day of election have condemned it since.

We were a witness of most of the mob movements which disgraced our town on the first of August, and we cannot believe in the sincerity of any sane man of any party, who saw half we did, who has the hardihood to ever in the face of the facts, that no legal voter was kept from the polls either by violence or a reasonable apprehension of violence. We do not now know the precise number, but we know that more legal voters, who desired to vote the Democratic ticket, and would have done it but for fear of their lives, were kept from the polls by the Opposition than would have sufficed to have carried the county for Capt. Simms.

The INAGURATION.—We call attention to the proceedings of the meeting held yesterday in reference to the inauguration ceremonies on the 30th inst. The several committees should organize immediately and look after the duties assigned them. We have no doubt that thousands from other parts of the State will be in Frankfort to witness the inauguration, and we trust that none will lack accommodations or go away disappointed.

In our list of the members of the Legislature we made a mistake in putting down Mr. Thompson as the member elect from the counties of Livingston and Marshall. It seems that T. L. Goheen, Esq., was elected by three majority. Goheen and Thompson were both Democrats, and the result does not change the Democratic majority in the House.

In another column we publish the full vote of the Ninth and First districts for Congressmen and Governor. Magoffin carries both. His majority of 4,141, and Burnett's majority of over nine thousand, indicate decidedly that the "bloody first" intends to keep her position at the head of the Democratic columns in Kentucky.

TEX BROCK WINS $125,000.—Ten Brock has won two more races in England with his American horses, and a vast amount of money. It will be seen by the telegraphic report that Starke, which won the Goodwood stakes, also won the race called the "Bentwick Memorial," of 1,000 sovereigns, and £25,000 addition. His horse Umpire, by Lecomte, won the Nursery stakes at the Goodwood Races.

Capt. Frost, of St. Louis, has just recovered three of his runaway negroes, that had settled in Chicago, by offering a reward of $2,500. The pile was too tempting to be resisted by a couple of the Chicago "freedom shriekers," who, by putting their Yankee wits to work, were enabled to land the darkies right at Capt. Frost's door.

The Alleged Fraud in the Ashland District.

The Louisville Journal and other Opposition prints, have been proclaiming loudly and lustily concerning frauds on the part of the Democracy in the Ashland District. It will be seen by the following article, which we copy from different papers in that district, that the boot is exactly on the other leg.

The Lexington Statesman has the following convincing article:

FACTS AND FIGURES.

The aggregate vote cast in the late Congressional election was the largest ever polled in this district. On opening, as it did, simultaneously with a general State election, and superinducing highly exciting and earnestly contested races for the Legislature in three counties of the district, we are not surprised that the full vote of each county has been more nearly recorded than in any former election. But whatever the causes to which this increased vote is attributable, neither its locality nor party complexion were peculiar to the district. The increase is general over the district, confined to no county, and seems to have accrued about equally to the benefit of the respective candidates. Let us make our figures:

In 1856, Fillmore received.....	6,335
Buchanan received.....	9,229
Aggregate vote.....	15,564
In 1857, Jus. B. Clay received.....	9,575
K. W. Harlan received.....	6,148
Aggregate vote.....	15,723
In 1858, Wm. C. Chase received.....	9,530
John M. Harlan received.....	6,693
Aggregate vote.....	16,223

From these figures it will be observed, that in the late election the aggregate vote exceeded by 729 that polled in the Presidential election, and by 774 that polled in the Clay and Harlan race. But this large gain is not exclusively of one political party. The Opposition have received more than one-half of the increased vote.

In 1859, Harlan, Opp., received..... 6,567
In 1857, Harlan, Opp., received..... 6,148
Harlan's increase..... 419
In 1859, Simms, Dem., received..... 9,930
In 1857, Clay, Dem., received..... 6,148
Simms' increase..... 3,782

Thus, of the 774 new votes, Mr. Harlan received 419, while Capt. Simms received but the remaining 355. If the aggregate vote of the district, from the fact that the Opposition have gone into the trade more largely than the Democracy. Nor is this increase confined to any single county or locality. It is wholly untrue, as sometimes asserted, that this increase is confined to Harrison county. The returns show it to have been general, and of itself an indication of nothing more than a very deep popular interest in the election.

In Fayette county the aggregate vote polled at the late election was..... 2,396
In the Clay and Harlan race it was..... 2,287
Increase in Fayette..... 109
In Bourbon co. the whole vote recently cast was..... 16,449
In the Clay and Harlan race it was..... 15,224
Increase in Bourbon..... 1,225
In Franklin county the vote cast in the late election was..... 16,781
In the Clay and Harlan race it was..... 15,316
Increase in Franklin..... 1,465
In Woodford county the aggregate vote cast at the late election was..... 11,062
In the Clay and Harlan race it was..... 10,355
Increase in Woodford..... 707

In Jessamine county the vote polled for Simms and Harlan was..... 11,143
In the Clay and Harlan race it was..... 11,143
Increase in Jessamine..... 0
In Scott, Harlan and Simms received..... 2,294
Do Clay and Harlan received..... 1,732
Increase in Scott..... 562
In Harrison, Simms and Harlan received..... 2,944
Do Clay and Harlan received..... 2,136
Increase in Harrison..... 808
In Nicholas, Simms and Harlan received..... 17,400
Do Clay and Harlan received..... 16,665
Increase in Nicholas..... 735

The increase in the Opposition counties of Bourbon, Fayette, Woodford, Franklin, and Jessamine was 488. Whereas in the Democratic counties of Scott, Harrison, and Nicholas there was but 253 more votes polled than were polled in the Clay and Harlan race. Harrison county increases her vote 108, while Fayette increases her vote 159, Bourbon 125, and Franklin 165. Nicholas increases her vote by 81, and falls below the increase in the three strong Know-Nothing counties of the district. To sum up, therefore, facts and figures conclusively demonstrate that if the increased vote indicates fraud, suspicion falls on the Opposition. We have made up a prima facie case against them. Of the eleven or eight hundred new voters, two thirds are found in strongly Opposition counties, and more than half voted the Opposition ticket. If it is proved that the question arises, who imported them? We have the benefit of a presumption on the side of the Democracy.

Our figures in the foregoing are as nearly accurate as we can now make them. Official returns cannot so vary them as to affect the argument we have based upon them. The Statesman also has the following:

An illustration.—The instance cited by the Observer & Reporter in illustration of the facility with which illegal voters are polled, when investigated becomes a striking example of the groundless charges which the Opposition are making against the legal voters of the naturalized vote of the district. It seems that James Legue, a well known resident of this city, in an alley last week, struck and killed an Irishman named Moran. On inquiry it is ascertained that the deceased had been in the State but a few months. Instantly it is presumed he voted; the poll books are examined, and, doubtless to the great satisfaction of those keen purveyors of fraud, the names of "James Legue" and "John Moran" are there found recorded for the Democratic ticket. The Observer and Reporter thereupon publishes as a fact that inquiries subsequent to the death of Moran developed the illegality of his vote, and states that he was in the State but three months before he voted. The Frankfort Commonwealth copies the paragraph, and it will doubtless go the rounds of the K. N. press never to be followed by its contradiction.

The facts, as we ascertain them, are these: The man who was killed was named John Moran. He did not vote here. The poll-books do not bear his name. Jas. Moran did vote, and with as clear and undisputed a right as had any man whose name is on the books. He is yet alive and well known in the city. The Observer and Reporter's comments and inferences rest upon a mistaken statement of facts. With this error thus exposed, we ask, will the Observer and Commonwealth correct the mistake to their readers, or silently permit the misstatement to work its influence? If in our investigation of the matter we have been deceived, which is scarcely possible, let us be so deceived to state the fact.

This is but a single illustration of the flimsy character of the Opposition charges of fraud. When investigated, all their allegations will be found equally devoid of truth.

The articles below are from the Cynthiana Age:

A FAIR PROPOSITION.
As the friends of Mr. Harlan are making so much noise about the majority polled for Captain Simms in this county, and are swearing so lustily that frauds were perpetrated by the Democracy of Harrison, and are threatening so loudly to purge the polls, we are authorized by a gentleman from this county to propose a wager of

ONE HUNDRED DOLLARS, that an examination of the poll-books of this county will disclose more illegal votes recorded for Mr. Harlan than for Capt. Simms. This wager is open to any one. We desire to see the polls purged, as we are confident that Simms' majority will be largely increased by the process.

THE COLEMANVILLE DISTRICT.
In addition to the $100 wager proposed in another place, we are authorized to offer the following proposition: A gentleman, a resident of and voter in the Colemanville district, noticing the assertion of the Louisville Journal and other

K. N. sheets, to the effect that voters were supplied to the Democracy at Colemanville on the day of election by the Kentucky Central Railroad, proposes to bet

$100 that the Opposition polled two illegal votes in the Colemanville district to the Democracy's one. If the Opposition really believe the stories they are circulating about Harrison county, there is an inducement for them not only to prove the truth of said stories, but a chance to "put money in their purses" at the same time.

MARRIED.

August 5th, 1859, on the Massillon and Flemingsburg Quinby, by Rev. John A. Clarke, at Millwood, Miss MARY J. WISHAM, of Ohio, and ROBERT ANDERSON, Esq., of Fleming county, Ky.

DIED.

In this city, on Sunday evening last, the 14th inst., of scarlet fever, ANNA RUSSELL, youngest daughter of W. A. and Margaret A. Gaines, aged nine months. She, whether it comes to think the soft purr of the kitten, to hush the bluebird's chirp or the robin's song, to stiffen the athletic form of manhood, or to lay his iron grasp on the tottering limbs of the gray-haired servant; but more terrible when his icy seal fastens on the darling, the cherished idol of the household—their own, their laughing child! Such was this coming, Of Death, and that, on the holy Sabbath eve. The light went out from a happy heart—stone, and a bitter wail burst from riven hearts, as the dark-robed angel bore little Anna from the bosom of her loved ones. Beautiful, calm, and lovely as the last rays of summer's sunset passed away the gentle spirit of her whose blameless, innocent, and pure life rendered her an object of love to all who knew her. Truly there is a magical charm in goodness, full accomplished in her friends beheld with deep solicitude, wisdom beyond her years—knowing that the Great Eternal has ever chosen "the fairest flowers to beautify the walks of his own Paradise." Light, death touched the beautiful sufferer; tender hands closed the blue-veined lids above the sightless eyes, and as softly robed her for the tomb as the loving mother could have clad her precious babe for a night's repose. As the fall of the ponderous column crushes the strong support, so has entwined its tendrils round the ivory pillar, so has her death shattered the heart-strings of her devoted parents. Bereaved mother, saw you not the parting soul as your aged child plunged her spirit wings for flight into the open gates of God's eternal day? Death in very pity, left it there, wrenching the cold lips, to cheer your sorrowing heart. Stricken mourner, behold, written on the clear day, "Thou benighted babe passed in and left the pearls gates ajar." Look up, and thou shalt catch faint glimpses of that far off land of light. Who shall say to the afflicted father that she beckons him not? That her spirit arms do not enfold the mourner now? Father, list; consolation shall float down on the wings of night—"tis an angel's voice," "blessed Saviour, room for my loved ones—room at thy feet, and in our Anna's bright eternal home." Goss.

The Baby.

Another little wave,
Upon the sea of life;
Another soul to love,
Amid its toil and strife.

Two more little feet
To walk the dusty road;
To choose where two paths meet,
The narrow or the broad.

Two more little hands
To work for good or ill;
Two more little eyes
To see the world as well.

Another heart to love,
Receiving love again,
And so the baby name,
A thing of joy and pain.

Lightning Stroke.

It is said that exposure to the rain or being drenched with buckets of water, seem to have some agency in restoring persons to life who have been prostrated by lightning.

It is better to take some precautions against the lightning, which will be the better applied if some explanations are given as to the nature of lightning.

There is a stillness in the atmosphere when all parts of it are of equal temperature, whether cold or hot, for the air is then in equilibrium. But if one part be hot, and the other be cold, as in two adjoining rooms, the moment the door between is opened there is a commotion, and the cold air rushes into the warmer room.

If two vessels of water adjoin and are connected by a hollow tube under the surface, both bodies of water are still, if each vessel is filled to an equal height; but if one vessel has a greater depth of water than the other, there is a commotion until an equilibrium is secured.

When the atmosphere about us is uniformly filled or saturated with electricity, there is quiet, safety, equilibrium. But if a layer either side has more or less electricity than the one about us, there is a passing of the electricity from one to the other, until each body of air is alike filled or equally saturated. But with this passing there is noise, as the passing of air makes the noise of wind, and the passage of water causes roaring, so the noise made by the passage of electricity is called thunder: the force of it is the lightning, as the force of wind or moving water carries us away, according to its rapidity; but lightning, like a cannon ball, moves so swiftly that the body which it strikes has not time to have motion imparted to it, and it is shivered or perforated; the comparison, however, does not hold good at all points.

But the electricity of the fuller section or body of air gets to the other which has less, with greater or less facility, according to what is between them, or connects them. If a pointed piece of metal, gold, silver, or iron connects these bodies of different fullness of electricity, the communication or stream is conducted so constantly and steadily, that there is no noise or commotion, there is no obstruction. But if wood is used, it does not conduct the electricity quick enough; hence wood is not as good a conductor as iron. Hence, where there is more electricity above us than on the earth, it comes down quietly and unnoticed if there are a great many iron communications or conductors, such as lightning rods; but if trees only extend from one to the other, or tall chimneys, there is noise and destruction. Hence it is best to keep away from chimneys and trees, or tall objects in thunder storms in warm weather; therefore, if in the house, keep as near to the centre of the room as possible.

But the course or direction of the lightning is always from the fuller air to that which is less full, as water runs from the fuller vessels towards the other. Hence the air in the clouds has more electricity, the "stroke" comes from above; if, however, the air on the surface is fuller of electricity, then the stroke is upwards; this is the reason, in many cases, why men and animals are killed by lightning in the open fields or on prairies.

But these unequally filled bodies of air may be parallel with each other, and if a house is between them, it will be a conductor, and a person sitting at an open window will be killed; if the window had been down, he might have been saved, for glass repels lightning; that is, it can keep it from passing; hence, if a man stands on the ground and takes hold of an electrical wire, the electricity will pass freely through his body into the earth; but if he stands on a glass block, the electricity does not go through, but collects in the man himself; he gets full of it, and "fire flies" out of him every time you touch him.

Lightning or electricity has a love, so to speak, for metals, has an affinity for them, or seeks for them, hence the less of iron, or steel, or other metals, you have about your person during a thunder storm in summer, the safer you are.—Hall's Journal of Health, August.

THE MEERSCHAUM MANIA.—It may chagrin Young America to learn, but nevertheless it is a fact, that the meerschaums so popular in this country at the present day, costing from $1 to $5, are mere shams. The genuine meerschaum, or that portion in which the cigar or tobacco is placed, is made in Vienna, of clay found in Asia. This clay resembles the porcelain clay of this country, and is easily moulded into any desired shape, and the finer the quality, the more easily is it colored by the oil of tobacco. The mouthpiece of the meerschaum is made of amber, a substance resembling resin, found along the Baltic Sea. This is valued according to the size of the piece and its fitness for mouthpieces. Some of them sell as high as $20, and the bowls for pipes as high as $50, in consequence of the elaborate carving upon them. They are made in Vienna, where a large number of persons are employed to meet the present demand. The price, however, cannot be considered enormous when it is understood that the finest quality of meerschaum cannot be perfectly colored under three months, and then it must be in use nearly all the time; say, for instance, thirty cigars per day smoked through one, each cigar costing three cents, would make the cost for ninety days $81, without counting sick headaches, nervousness, etc.

CLEAN MILKING.—It is sometimes forgotten that the last gilt of milk drawn from the cow's udder is the best part of every milking. Careful experiments made in England and show (according to a report lately published) that "the quantity of cream obtained from the last drawn cup from most cows exceeds that of the first in the proportion of twelve to one." The difference in the quality also is considerable. Hence a person who carelessly leaves but half a pint of milk undrawn, loses in reality about as much cream as would be afforded by six or eight pints at the beginning; and loses, too, that part of the cream which gives the richness and high flavor to his butter.

SCOURING KNIVES.—A small, clean potato with the end cut off, is a very convenient medium of applying brick dust to knives, keeping it about the right moisture, while the juice of the potato assists in removing stains from the surface. We can get a better polish by this method than by any other we have tried, and with less labor.

Children's games seem to be growing popular with adults now-a-days, as it is not an uncommon thing to see men of all ages chasing hoops in the street.

The Louisville Journal and its Calumnies, Excusing the Defeat in the Ashland District.

To those well acquainted with the credulity to which the Louisville Journal is properly entitled, so far as its political facts are concerned, it is hardly necessary to deny or refute its calumnies and falsehoods. Excuse for political defeats are common as blackberries, and the victor's party is generally very tolerant of the poor privilege of the conqueror's party, in consoling itself with the most plausible story which can be trumped up by its credulity or ingenuity. The Democratic party has been three times victorious in the Ashland District, first in the glorious triumph of John C. Breckinridge, followed up by that of James H. Clay, and confirmed by the election of Capt. Simms. All these victories of the past six years, if the Journal can be believed, have been accomplished by the most shameless frauds. The Journal in its issue of last Saturday, surpasses itself in the bold and reckless calumnies in which it so much excels. Of course, Pretence, or the pretence of having no personal knowledge, so as to state testimony to the statements charging frauds in the election of Capt. Simms in Harrison and Nicholas counties. The Journal would have it spread abroad, that at Cynthiana, in Harrison county, from 70 to 100 naturalized Irish voters were allowed to vote, without the qualification of residence, and that the whole gravel train of Irish were taken to the Cynthiana precinct, and voted there, and after voting all these Irish lifted off with the twilight. It states that the mill to grind naturalization papers was kept busy at work up to the day of the election, and one of the ablest and most honest Circuit Judges in our State, is indirectly impeached as participant in those alleged frauds. The Journal could not have been a witness for the facts which it undertakes to impute, and if he stated them from his own knowledge, he would not be believed, but he says he has taken the pains to gather them from various sources. What are his sources of information we are ignorant, but whether coming from the Journal or any other source, we are authorized by many gentlemen of much higher veracity than the Journal, for saying, that all the Journal's allegations of fraud in the Harrison election are unfounded falsehoods. In fact, out of the eight counties composing the Ashland District, a majority of the judges of the election were decided Opposition partisans. In Nicholas county, which is decidedly Democratic, the Sheriff of the county is an active and worshipping Opposition partisan; so it appears that in six of the eight counties, our opponents had a majority of judges. In every precinct in the Ashland District, the polls were closed, and the result was ascertained by the active Opposition partisans. We deny all contradiction, when we state, that no foreigner was allowed to vote without a most searching examination of his naturalization papers, and proof of his legal residence. Every technical ingenuity was resorted to, and every party prejudicial had full sway, in excluding from suffrage many persons who were entitled to suffrage.

The Journal talks of a disputed election, and encourages its friends to a full investigation. In our own county, and in sight of our own door, we witnessed a considerable amount of illegal voting against us, and no Democrat was allowed to vote unless he passed muster under the eye of Garrett Davis.

Where the Journal is well known, its calumnies and its friends to a full investigation. In our own county, and in sight of our own door, we witnessed a considerable amount of illegal voting against us, and no Democrat was allowed to vote unless he passed muster under the eye of Garrett Davis.

Funeral of a Siberian Chief.

At a late meeting of the London Royal Historical Society, Mr. Atkinson, whose interesting travels among the Kirgiz, and other nomads of Siberia, have recently been published, delivered to the meeting "A Narrative of some of the adventures of these nomads, and of the funeral of a chief named Darna Syrym, who died near Norzaisan, when Mr. Atkinson was on a visit to the tribe."

"So soon as the chief was dead, messengers were sent off to invite the head men residing within a hundred miles, who all immediately repaired to the funeral. The body of the chief was laid out in the best attire, his chair of state was placed at his head, his saddle, arms, and clothing were hung around, and silk curtains were suspended from the roof of his yurt. His wives and daughters, with the females of the tribe, knelt around, chanting the funeral dirge, in which the voices of men occasionally joined. While this was going on, the funeral feast was preparing. Ten horses and a number of oxen were slaughtered, and the bodies were thrown into numerous cauldrons, boiling over a fire kindled in the ground, which were constantly kept stirred by men stripped to the waist. When a sufficient quantity of food was dressed, the feast began. The guests sat in a circle round the meat, the chiefs nearest the center; those of next degree next them; and the women outside."

"The feast lasted seven days, during which 2,000 men and women were fed. On the eighth day of mutton and horse flesh. On the eighth day the body was conveyed to the tomb or a camel; the camel also carried the staff of state. The two favorite horses of the chief followed; after which went the whole tribe, singing the funeral hymn. On reaching the place of burial the body was deposited in the grave, and the horses were forthwith slain and placed beside the body of their master.
